The Use and Care of Pessaries

If you are a candidate for a Pessary, you will find the following information useful.

A Pessary is a vaginal prosthesis that has evolved over centuries to become an effective medical device to relieve the stress of a cystocele, a rectocele, a uterine or bladder prolapsed, or the problems associated with urinary incontinence. Pessaries come in various shapes, sizes and materials. They are perfectly safe and comfortable for long term usage.

Commonly Asked Questions:

Will I always have to use this pessary?

Not necessarily. Although pessaries are an alternative to surgery, your vaginal muscles may strengthen to the extent that your pessary is no longer required. Sometimes pessaries are only required for strenuous exercises like jogging or hiking. Certainly, if you are a candidate for surgery, your pessary is only temporary until corrective surgery can be performed.

Can a pessary hurt or become uncomfortable?

A properly fitted pessary will never cause pain or discomfort. You should be able to perform your normal daily activities without any difficulty.

How often should I remove my pessary?

If you manage your pessary on your own, you can remove your pessary daily to clean it using mild soap and water. However, if you have difficulty removing your pessary, contact our office and make an appointment for removal and cleaning. Do not be alarmed if your appointment date is weeks away. It is not unusual for pessaries to remain in place from 4 to 12 weeks.

What is my responsibility?

Your responsibility is to follow your healthcare provider's instructions, wear your pessary, and keep all follow-up appointments. If you should move, be sure to notify our office.

Will my pessary set off the alarm at the airport?

Absolutely not.

Can I have sex with my pessary in place?

You certainly can. If you need to remove your pessary, then do so.

Will my pessary prevent pregnancy?

No, it will not. A pessary is not a contraceptive device. If you are sexually active, wear a pessary and need to avoid pregnancy, then discuss this with your healthcare provider.

Can my pessary fall out?

Yes, it can. If your pessary is too small or you need a different type of pessary, sometimes it will fall out. Whenever this happens, simply clean your pessary with mild soap and water and reinsert it. If it is a persistent problem, then call our office for an appointment. You may need a different size or type.

Daily Care and Helpful Hints:

I can't remove my pessary, now what?

If you want to remove your pessary but can't, don't panic. Simply call our office and schedule an appointment.

My pessary seems to have moved out of position and is uncomfortable.

Wash your hands, lie down and push the pessary up as far as you can. Don't worry, it can't get lost. It's impossible to push your pessary into your abdomen.

I see some discharge and bleeding. What should I do?

Sometimes pessaries can irritate body tissue causing a slight discharge or bleeding. Call our office if it persists.

Should I douche?

You do not have to douche unless instructed to do so by your healthcare provider.
